The Road to Health.

It was something like three years ago that an ambitious bookkeeper complained to the writer of his inability to keep his eyes open the moment he applied them to books of an evening after work. Since boyhood he had contributed to the support of a family of seven, and now at the age of twenty-four he desired to take up shorthand and to carry a correspondence course or two. If by hook or by crook he did manage to work until eleven or twelve o'clock his mind would be dull and heavy next day. At one time he was so ill advised as to try drinking strong tea for supper. Tea kept his eyes open all right, but headache began to manifest themselves, and sleeplessness and other symptoms of nervousness put in appearance. The young man dropped the tea, and the headaches and nervousness disappeared almost immediately, but evening work was again impossible. The writer suggested to him that he discontinue his suppers, eating at most an apple or other fresh fruit, or perhaps a small bowl of cereal flakes with the juice of a stewed fruit. He adopted the suggestion, adding to it one of his own devising—that he be careful at all meals to choose only the digestible foods—and before a year had elapsed his knowledge of shorthand had gained him a private secretaryship to the president of his concern, and he is now a small stockholder. He had capitalized his time.

An eminent political economist recently ventured the assertion that not one person in ten is healthy—meaning by healthy not "just so-so," but positively, vitally, actively, radiantly so. The other nine sort of worry along, some in positive ill health, the others neither sick nor well, both classes a burden to themselves and to those who are obliged to live and work with them. And inasmuch as these persons are so preponderantly in the majority it is pertinent to ask, "Can health come back?"

The answer is most emphatically, it can. If you are willing to deny yourself accustomed luxuries. Self-denial—that is the price of getting well. It sounds a great deal easier than parting with good gold, but most people prefer contributing to the support of a physician to giving up some of their three or four daily meals, or a cup of tea. A drug trade journal recently descanted upon what it was pleased to call "the ivory-headed public." The burden of the editor's satire was this: "In their ability to resist the letting in of information concerning matters of health, the heads of a remarkably large portion of the general public seem to be made of solid ivory, bone or wood. . . . Patronize the restaurants and hotel dining rooms and note how many stuff their stomachs full of unassimilated food, making it go down with ice-water, coffee, beer or wine, instead of the natural digestive fluids of the mouth. If these strictures seem severe try a little experiment. Select a dozen persons who for financial reasons are in particular need of the mental efficiency that comes of vigorous health, and persuade them to adopt the suggestions herein contained, and then observe how few of them persevere. When a week of proper eating fails to correct the results of a lifetime of indulgence they give up in despair and go back to the flesh-pots of the Nile with the suspicion that you are a crank.

Forget all about any other suspenders you ever wore and consider two commonsense reasons for wearing

SHIRLEY PRESIDENT SUSPENDERS

These reasons are COMFORT and DURABILITY. Consider them fairly—you can't get away from them—they must appeal to you personally because they are for your good.

You know that a sliding cord, such as the Shirley President has, with its instant adjustment to every bodily motion, must be more comfortable than the ordinary suspender. You will also realize that this cord gives longer wear to the suspenders and never pulls the trouser buttons off.

M'CULLOCH IS ORGANIZING FOR O'REAR

Millionaire Kentucky Distiller Sends Out Letters For Funds.

TO HELP O'REAR TO OFFICE.

Urges That Success of Republicans Would Have Great National Significance.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 29.—Friends and supporters of Edward C. O'Rear, Republican candidate for governor, were thrown into a panic when it became known that Col. J. W. McCulloch, the millionaire distiller of Owensboro, and president of the Kentucky Distillers' Association, is flooding all Western Kentucky with letters to United States gaugers, postmasters and other federal employees calling for funds to assist in financing the Republican campaign in Kentucky this fall.

While Judge O'Rear is positively refusing to discuss national issues, McCulloch in his circular letter says that victory in November will not only mean a Republican state "longer than we live, but at the next meeting of the Kentucky legislature it will give us another United States Senator." He declares that it will aid in the renomination of Taft in 1912. He declares that the eyes of the national organization are centered on this campaign and it is the duty of all Republicans to come to the aid of the state ticket.

SENDING OUT APPEALS.

On stationery of the "Republican State Campaign," the names of John W. Langley, chairman, and Alvis S. Bennett, secretary, appearing at the top, Col. McCulloch is sending out his appeals for aid.

When Col. McCulloch was asked today for an explanation of his sudden activity in behalf of the man he had threatened to bolt if nominated, he merely grinned and refused to discuss the subject.

An interesting story is contained in a special from Paducah on the organization of the branch headquarters at the Palmer House in that city on Sunday, August 27.

Col. McCulloch went to Paducah on that day to meet Judge O'Rear and Chairman Langley and other Republicans. It is said both O'Rear and Langley had written McCulloch more than once urging a conference.

HOW O'REAR SPENT THE SABBATH.

On the Sunday of this meeting, it was given out in the newspapers that Judge O'Rear went to hear his old pastor, now located in Paducah, preach and enjoyed the sermon very much; also that Judge O'Rear spent the remainder of the day at rest, always refusing to travel on Sunday trains or transact any worldly affairs on Sunday.

According to the story, just published, after dinner on that Sunday there assembled in Judge O'Rear's room about twenty prominent Republicans, who had come by his invitation from the First and Second districts.

Judge O'Rear immediately took charge of the business in hand, and at his dictation the following officers were chosen for the branch organization, with headquarters at Paducah: T. W. Vinton, of Caldwell county, chairman of executive committee; W. B. Scott, of Hopkins county, chairman of speakers' committee; Wallace Key of Calloway county, chairman of publicity committee; W. T. Fowler, of Christian county, chairman of another committee. John W. McCulloch, of Davies county, chairman of finance committee. Mr. McCulloch was made chairman of the finance committee on motion of Mr. Langley, with Judge O'Rear smiling and nodding approval. Mr. McCulloch accepted the honor, and in his characteristic businesslike way said there was no time like the present to begin the work of raising money. He therefore announced his own subscription to the campaign fund, and in a few minutes had raised among those in the room $500.

SLAPS M'CULLOCH ON SHOULDER. This put some enthusiasm into the meeting, and O'Rear, it is said, slapped McCulloch on the shoulder, saying he had never known before what a good fellow he was, and added: "Go out and get it; don't confine yourself to the First and Second districts, but get it anywhere."

And McCulloch, heeding the admonition of his leader, has flooded Western Kentucky with letters to storekeepers and gaugers, postmasters, rural route carriers and Republicans generally, appealing for funds to elect O'Rear and make Kentucky safe for Taft next year.

Mr. McCulloch, as the head of the distillers' organization, has spent much time at Frankfort the past two or three sessions of the legislature working against the passage of the county unit bill, and he vigorously opposed the nomination of O'Rear for Governor because of his advocacy of the county unit bill, even saying he would never vote for him.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Men.

Send Name and Address Today ---You Can Have it Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, up-building, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3715 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain, ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

ANANIAS OUTLIED.

South Dakotan Carried by Wind 700 Feet Through The Air.

Rapid City, S. D., Sept. 28.—While washing dishes in her home-stead shack near Oakston, a village near here, Mrs. George Sumner was picked up with the building by a sudden funnel-shaped cloud and carried 700 feet in the structure.

The cyclone, which came out of an almost clear sky, completely wrecked the building when it deposited it upon the ground, but the woman, aside from a few minor injuries, was not harmed.

At the end of the air journey Mrs. Sumner fainted. Neighbors who saw the incident from distant points say the building was shattered against a cliff and reduced to kindling wood. Rushing to the aid of the woman, they found the building smashed and Mrs. Sumner almost buried in the debris.

The cloud touched no other dwelling in that locality and there was no indication of a storm except in the precise spot hit. The shack is said to have been carried fifty feet in the air.

SOME TOBACCO.

The Weed as Seen by One South Christian Farmer.

South Christian, Sept. 29.

MR. EDITOR:—

Some days ago you gave out that one of Newt-ad's young farmers had some large tobacco. Now, if he had seen some of the crops down on old Palmyra pike, he would have seen something. Down that way the weed was so large and thick on the ground that birds and rabbits were smothered by getting under it and one man saw small dogs walking on the leaves. Yours,

HOT SHOT.
